

Mahlohonolo Anna Lekabe

IPC coordinator @ Boitumelo Regional Hospital from 2017 to date.

Has been practicing in the nursing field for 32 years now.

Previously worked in Critical care, Nephrology, and was part of IPT Research study between 2006– 2010 at the mines in Goldfields, Carletonville.

Advocates for evidence-based practice in working environment, update thereof and applying it for implementation of change in the care of patients and improvement in their health status.

Gives attention to detail and passionate about good clinical IPC practices to ensure quality patient care.

Believes deeply in “cleanliness is next to godliness”, as a servant of God hence she is passionate about IPC being her area of practice and her daily living.